From EDP to General Counsel
This most interesting question is closely related to another policy and legal inquiry which has been written up and will be presented in a few days. It concerns the problem of whether Post Differential payments should or must be paid during transit time and home leave to eligible persons under specific circumstances. This problem also involves the fact that the Department of State treats FSO Officers and Reserve Officers differently than F.Ss Staff Officers and employees.

Suggest two problems should be studied concurrently.
